

Stavros Michailidis

Trusted creativity expert and advisor, Stavros Michailidis unleashes the creative power of people, teams and organizations. He offers a balanced perspective crafted from his “real-world” experience as a successful entrepreneur and scholarly insights developed as a researcher and academic.

Stavros has consulted corporations, government agencies, not-for-profits, and entrepreneurs alike and has managed two start-ups in the construction and the laundry business in the US. His current efforts include teaching at the University of Southern Florida and consulting.

Stavros is a graduate of the International Center for Studies in Creativity where he earned an MS in Creative Studies and Change Leadership. His graduate work culminated in the development of an internationally recognized theory and framework for building momentum during innovation.